A guide on kitchen measurements

The Kube Process

In order for us to create your dream kitchen, bedroom or living space, we will need some initial measurements to get us started.

Step 1: Use our kitchen planner to sketch your room and jot down any notes – don't worry, it doesn't have to be perfect at this stage.

Step 2: Visit your nearest Kube showroom and browse our kitchen displays. We have many styles on display, showcasing the design and product quality of a kitchen from Kube. Inspect the many finishes of worktops, door fronts and handles. Book a design consultation with a Kube Kitchen Consultant to discuss your brief more fully. Gather all your kitchen ideas, magazine cut-outs and any notes you have made and bring them along to your first consultation.

Step 3: You should allow at least an hour to meet one of our qualified designers. All your ideas and notes are discussed and captured in the first design brief. The consultant will need room measurements - either your architect's plans or your own.

Step 4: Our kitchen consultant can now get to work designing your kitchen and preparing a presentation including 3D drawings. This is all completed at absolutely no cost to you. Your initial design will be presented to you at the second design consultation and it is a really exciting stage of the project. You will see your dream kitchen come to life for the first time with our realistic 3D rendering. At this meeting the consultant will walk you through your design brief and present a fully costed option for you to consider. You will get an opportunity to delve into the plans and give your feedback. You can also discuss budgets and agree the requirements to move to the next step of the project.

Step 5: Before placing your order, our installation team will survey your kitchen space, taking detailed measurements and photographs, and relay this information to our designers who then create a very detailed order pack with plumbing and electrical plans to aid your builder with their process.

Step 6: Following the survey, your order is finalised and our Customer Services department will take charge, keeping you informed of the delivery date. Our Customer Services team are here to help you through this stage. Our handy pre-installation checklist tells you all you need to know in advance.

Step 7: Your kitchen is delivered by our trained in-house delivery team.

Step 8: A Kube trained installer installs your kitchen and typically this will take between two and four days.

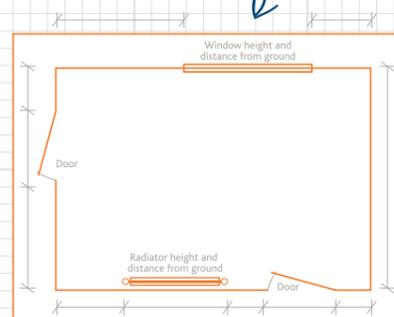

Step 9: A quartz, stone or wooden worktop will need to be templated after the kitchen installation. Following this, the finished worktop will be installed approximately 10 days later. Your plumber and electrician have some second stage fixing to connect your water and electrical appliances. Your dream Kube kitchen is now ready to be enjoyed.

What our customers think

Get ready to be inspired by real life kitchens like this. We're delighted to share Ciara's dream kitchen, designed at Kube Long Mile Road — a space that brings warmth, balance and contemporary lines to a home full of character.

Working closely with Ciara, our design team combined Laser Sand cabinetry with the new Structura Milano Walnut finish to create warmth and balance against the natural textures. An elegant floating drawer cabinet, softly illuminated from below, bridges changes in level and connects the living and kitchen areas, while a cleverly integrated laundry zone under the stairs maintains a seamless, uncluttered look.

Finished with Satin Brass handles, Silestone Miami Vena worktops, and high-performance Bosch and Whirlpool appliances paired with a Quooker tap, the result is a calm, cohesive space — a perfect expression of Real Life Kitchens by Kube.

“My favourite thing about my new Kube kitchen is the wooden effect of the island, of the drawers, of the units, and the backsplash. I think it ties in beautifully with the ceiling beam and complements the stonework of the existing house perfectly.”

Ciara, Kildare

A minimalist kitchen with maximum function

Simon Delaney is one of the many customers who placed their trust in Kube Kitchens years ago and has since become a true ambassador for our brand.

We designed Simon's dream kitchen — a space tailored for family life and filming his cookery show.

Here is an exclusive look at his Kube High Gloss kitchen. The worktops are Silestone Quartz in Maple Stellar. An Oak finished breakfast bar, with seating for four, borders the island.

In addition to the kitchen design, we planned a simple but very effective, matching living and TV area by combining the materials used in the kitchen.

"We needed a kitchen that would function well for our family and also look spectacular for filming my upcoming cooking programme. Many of our friends recommended Kube, and we feel fortunate that they did."

Simon Delaney

Modern family living

For Jane and Graham, the challenge was trying to establish the most suitable layout for the kitchen so we could fit everything in.

We toyed with a few ideas until we agreed on the most suitable location. An oak breakfast bar and matching splash-back behind the hob were added to make this kitchen warm and homely.

Jane and Graham decided on a two-toned option on the kitchen fronts mixing white with quartz grey, both in a lacquered high gloss finish. Placed over an 80cm induction hob, the white, glass finish extractor blends in nicely with the white, high gloss units. There is a tall, integrated larder fridge and larder freezer side by side flanked by a tall larder storage unit with internal pull out drawers. On the other side is the Siemens studioLine oven featuring a full-size single oven with built-in microwave, pulseSteam, and Home Connect WiFi connectivity.

"From start to finish Kube were impeccable. They understood what we were looking for, what we were thinking and feeling. It's everything that I wanted. It works for me and my family. That's why I love the kitchen that we have."

Bespoke Kitchen Pantries

Pantries have become a necessary element of modern kitchen design with a third of Kube customers now requesting a pantry as they provide much needed additional storage. There are two main options – cabinet pantry storage within the kitchen, or a separate room just off the kitchen if space is not an issue.

Cabinet pantries are a great way of storing items but keeping them hidden from view. Most cabinet pantries include shelving on top with deep drawers underneath to store essential items. The shelving can be used to hold the coffee machine, toaster and kettle. Internal sockets mean these items can be used in-situ and hidden from view when not in use which leaves the kitchen worktop free from clutter. The sockets also enable this area to become a charging station for tech items with wires hidden from view.

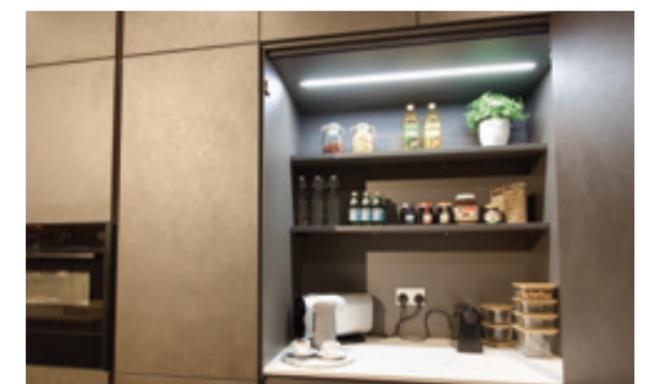

Bi-folding or pocket doors can be used in order to allow full access.

“Cabinet pantries are really practical for everyday use as they are right in the middle of the kitchen. Interesting finishes such as stone shelving, mirrored backdrops and lighting can all be installed in order to make the pantry more attractive when open and in use. As well as drawers underneath the shelving, it is also a convenient area to locate a small wine fridge.”

Dave Fagan, Kube Galway.

Walk-in pantries are ideal if the home has the luxury of additional space beside the kitchen. These pantries generally feature open shelving for storage with items that are used infrequently located on top shelves, and remaining shelves being used for easily accessible food and dry goods. The counter top can double up as an extra work surface and also hold bulkier items such as an airfryer or sandwich maker.
